
ASYLUM

Harsh Maskara

After a manic episode and four rounds of ECT, one man rebuilds himself — only to discover that asylums are everywhere. In our homes, our offices, our minds.

Part memoir, part philosophical inquiry, Asylum is a raw and unconventional exploration of mental illness, solitude, and what it truly means to be free.

For every person who has ever felt like an outsider in their own life.

About the Author

Harsh Maskara is a Kolkata-based writer and researcher who has spent over fifteen years studying the subconscious mind, human behavior and the invisible forces that shape our lives. His writing is raw, unconventional and deeply personal — drawn from his own experience of mania, recovery and reinvention. He is the author of five books including Making Friends with Mania, Eagles Fly Alone, Deliberate and Naked. Asylum is his most ambitious work to date.
